

COL. KNOX HAILS FIGHT FOR FREEDOM AS BIG ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE TO DECIDE; HITS THE NEW DEAL HYSTERIA IN HIS SPEECH

Vice-Presidential Candidate in Accepting Nomination of Republican Party Lashes Administration for False Promises of Ease in a Regimented State — Declares Nation Will Choose "Self-Support, Self-Government and Self-Respect"—Charges New Deal With Responsibility For 10,000,000 Still Unemployed.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 31—(INS)—Frank Knox swung into the campaign trail behind Gov. Alfred M. Landon today with his fighting acceptance speech of the Republican nomination for the Vice-Presidency as a starting point.

With the huge Chicago Stadium packed to the walls and thousands more jamming the streets outside, the Chicago newspaper publisher exhorted his hearers to turn the campaign into a crusade and "keep America free from governmental regimentation."

Thus standing four-square on the Republican platform, Col. Knox turned on a heated attack against the policies of the Roosevelt Administration, declaring:

"For more than three years the economic life of the country has been at the mercy of a crew of amateur experimenters, hacking at the vitals of American industry, agriculture, commerce and finance . . ."

"This endless succession of interferences and experiments was inaugurated under the deceptive slogan of a New Deal. No one of its proponents has even been able to define the New Deal or explain what it is aimed at or where it is going.

"It began with a proposal for a belt of trees in a territory that Nature decided should not have trees. It is ending with the use of public funds to conduct lessons in tap dancing.

The nominee went on to say that the Republican Party does not often patent nostrums and curealls, but that it does promise honest and sound government.

The text of the address of Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, accepting the Republican nomination for Vice-President of the United States, follows:

Senator Steiwer, fellow citizens:

You have heard the eloquent words of that stalwart statesman from our sister State of Oregon, Senator Steiwer. You have heard him convey to me the official notification of my nomination by the Republican Party for the high office of Vice President of the United States. You have heard his clear call to all citizens to join in a crusade for sound government in America. You have heard his friendly and flattering references to me.

It becomes my privilege and my duty to accept this call to service. I am deeply conscious of the personal honor that has been conferred on me by the Republican Party. I am deeply conscious also of the responsibility that rests on me to bear this honor worthily. But I am, above all, conscious of the opportunity for service. Even above and beyond my profound appreciation of the honor and the responsibility that have been given me is my appreciation of the opportunity to serve not only my party but my country.

It is customary in acknowledgments of this kind to avoid personal reference. Tonight, I am going to depart briefly from that custom. I am a working man. I have always worked. I began to work as a small boy in a small town in Michigan. Throughout my life, I have followed one guiding principle. That principle was to do as best I could the job that lay before me. That principle carried me into life and work in a fine New England town. It took me into difficult and responsible work in the great City of New York. It carried me into the service of my country in two wars. It brought me to my work and my home in the great City of Chicago, the metropolis of a great State in a great Midwest empire.

And I am moved tonight by a realization that in this crusade for the restoration of sound government in our land there is before me the greatest opportunity for service that has ever come to me. Long years ago, I learned as a buck private the lessons of duty and of loyalty. In the years that have passed I have learned the equally important lesson that the greatest achievement of any man is service to his fellow citizens. In this spirit of service I accept the call of my party. I pledge my loyalty to the principles of the Republican Party. I pledge my loyalty to the policies laid down at the Cleveland convention. I pledge myself to the principles of sound and honest government. I pledge my personal loyalty to that great Governor of a prairie State, the next President of the United States, the Honorable Alf Landon.

It is no ordinary campaign that confronts us. It is no ordinary political choice that the country must make next November. In this Presidential campaign, as in every other, it is for the Nation to decide whether the Administration in office has performed its duty. There is always the question whether the Administration in office has met its responsibilities honestly and fairly and wisely. There is always the question whether it has fulfilled the stewardship entrusted to it and earned thereby a renewal of its direction of Government for four more years. In every election, the people must decide whether they shall say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

In this first and ordinary issue, the ed, it inaugurated a policy of credit adulteration and currency experiment that demoralized foreign trade and frightened domestic finance. It set up a system of regimentation of industry that reduced production and prevented re-employment. By coercion of Congress, it formed the passage of reform measures so recklessly drawn that they hamstringed the revival of enterprise and paralyzed the renewal of investment. It installed a regimentation of agriculture that destroyed food and reduced foreign markets and increased the cost of living and multiplied the expense of relief.

At a time when private industry was struggling desperately for a new start it set up Governmental enterprise to compete with private business. At a time when the burden of taxation was already hard to bear it embarked on a policy of squandering public funds and increasing the weight of taxes. At a time when united effort and mutual good-will would have completed recovery it promoted sectional hatred and class strife. At a time when returning business confidence was ending depression it began a campaign to terrorize business and subjugate the banks.

At a time when confidence in the character of Government was vital, it established a spoils system. At a time when the economic system was worn and emaciated it performed major surgical operations upon the industrial body to see what was inside. It adopted an economic philosophy of scarcity and forced it upon a hungry and distressed people.

The present Administration ignored its responsibility, failed in its job, defaulted in its obligation. I do not need to tell you the results. The inevitable recovery could not be permanently blocked by governmental error. It is still on its way. But it was retarded and discouraged. And we slowly emerge from its thralls with the menaces of governmental insolvency and nondescript currency and business disturbance shadowing the future. You see the results in the fourth year of mounting deficits, in the chaotic condition of our currency, in the bloated reserves of our banks, in the swollen expenditures for relief.

Above all, you see the results in the millions still unemployed. I charge the present Administration with delaying recovery, in the United States and in the world. I charge the present Administration with responsibility for the 10,000,000 still unemployed. It would not be truthful to say that all the measures of the present Administration have been failures. In the mad whirl of economic experiments there have been a few sound and desirable measures of regulation. That must be freely conceded.

But in the major measures of recovery and in the task of Administration, it has failed completely. It has not kept faith with the Nation. It has not

OPENS GATES TO FOREIGN PRODUCTS

By Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts

It is clear that instead of protecting the home market the New Deal has invited further competition from abroad. Such was its declared purposes when the legislation authorizing the trade treaty program was passed.

It was argued that the only way we could regain our foreign trade was by allowing foreign countries to sell us more of their products.

In spite of the fact that two-thirds of our imports, on a value basis, were already free of duty, the New Deal insisted that the gates should be opened wider to foreign goods. The fallacy of the Administration's program has already been demonstrated.

These trade treaties do not bind foreign countries to purchase any goods in our markets. What is happening is that they are taking advantage of the opportunity which the New Deal afforded them to sell in the United States, but they are spending their money elsewhere.

There is nothing to indicate that a continuation of the New Deal's "good neighbor policy" will have any different result. American producers are being sold out and we are receiving no compensating benefits from foreign countries.

Our farmers were promised an outlet for their surplus commodities as soon as the trade treaty program got under way. Instead, they have seen their foreign markets shrink still further.

For example, our exports of wheat and wheat flour declined from 36 million bushels in 1934 to 16 million bushels in 1935. In the same period, exports of tobacco declined from 419 million pounds to 381 million pounds. Exports of pork declined from 84 million pounds to 62 million pounds. Exports of lard declined from 431 million pounds to only 96 million pounds.

While farm exports have declined, farm imports have tremendously increased. From 1934 to 1935 imports of canned beef rose from 47 million pounds to 76 million pounds; wheat from 8 million bushels to 27 million bushels; corn from 3 million bushels to 43 million bushels; oats from 5 million bushels to 10 million bushels; barley malt from 193 million pounds to 320 million pounds; and egg products from 3 million pounds to nearly 8 million pounds.

Both Sides Entrenched

By H. R. Knickerbocker

At the front with the northern rebel army at the village of Robregordo. Beyond the pass of Somo Sierra, the Spanish white army is on the offensive in the north, and the Madrid reds are in retreat.

Today, as we stood looking through periscope binoculars, ankle deep in the debris of war, for the first time this statement can be made on the basis of several hundred observers.

By H. R. Knickerbocker

(Copyright, 1936, I. N. S.)

Northern Spanish Rebel Army Headquarters, Burgos, July 31—Dug in on both sides with trenches and machine guns, like those on the western front in the Great War, Spain's red and white armies rose into war of position today, and the reprisals behind the lines cost more lives than those on the actual battlefield.

The bloodthirsty bitterness of the war factions had reached proportions beyond the ability of authorities on either side to check, and acts were being committed which were not approved.

Inflamed at news from the Madrid sector, that reds have slaughtered prisoners, and are setting fire to the churches, and burning priests alive, the whites have taken prisoners and shot them down without a trial.

The general rule is to execute those prisoners who admit they are Communists, and as this has become known to the red sides, the reds' reprisals is to shoot all white officers taken in capture.

Thus the circle of vengeance grows and as the civil war continues as it promises today, there will be more slaughter than in ordinary warfare rules.

Today in the Burgos hospital area over 200 wounded men, many fatally injured, and many are in such a condition that if they live they will be totally disabled, and most of them were maimed.

PEDDLER COMES BACK AFTER WARNING TO LEAVE

Visits House of Constable Aita
And Tries to Sell
Linoleum

PAYS $50 FINE AND COSTS

Unwilling to take the advice of a constable who told him to leave town, as it was against the law to peddle here, a Philadelphia returned yesterday and again went from house to house, to sell linoleum. He was arrested and fined $50 and costs.

The man gave his name as William Weinstein when slated at police headquarters. He was arrested by Constable Charles P. Aita.

It is stated that Weinstein called at Aita's house on Wednesday and endeavored to sell linoleum. Mr. Aita was home and informed the man that he was violating the law and that he had better stop at once and leave town. Weinstein told a story to the effect that he had been covering the floor of a tap-room and had some linoleum left which he wanted to sell cheap. After being advised by Aita to leave, the man said he would do so at once.

Yesterday Aita found Weinstein on Franklin street peddling linoleum and at once placed him under arrest. The man was given a hearing before Justice of Peace James Gay in Municipal police court.

After the dinner, members of the party broke up into small groups and journeyed to Trenton theatres. This was done so that members who had seen one show could select another theatre for the evening's entertainment.

ROTARIANS HEAR ABOUT TEACHING MATHEMATICS

Professor Harry P. Rothmel
Addresses Group On Helwig Lawn

MAKES IT INTERESTING

Bristol Rotarians gathered on the lawn of E. Leslie Helwig yesterday and listened to an address on "Modern Methods of Teaching Mathematics," by Professor Harry P. Rothmel, instructor at Simon Gratz High School, Philadelphia.

The professor, who specializes in the teaching of geometry, and also instructs in algebra and trigonometry, spoke on how he makes the study of geometry and other related mathematical subjects interesting to his students.

His method consists in making each problem concrete and with a practical application. "In the abstract, the subject is very uninteresting," the professor said.

"When the student sees that each problem can have a practical application to his living, then he immediately takes on a renewed interest."

"Just as bright paints will hold the baby's eye, so does a practical application add the necessary color to hold the student's interest," Professor Rothmel claimed.

And the application goes further than just with students. The professor also explained how the subject can be made more interesting to adults, and he demonstrated these practical uses in the undertakings of some of the local Rotary members.

Bandits Get $60.36

Norristown, July 31—Armed with sawed off shot guns, a gang of five desperadoes today raised the American Railway Express Company platform at the Reading Station here, slugging a driver and escaping with a small safe containing only $60.36.

Police believe the men were aware of the fact that the safe, owned by the Express Company, has been used to ship large sums of currency to the Philadelphia office. They apparently believed, detectives theorized, that the safe was to have contained such a shipment today. The victim of the hold-up, Harry Scheepz, 40, driver for the Express Company, had just unloaded the safe from his truck when the bandits' sedan drove up outside the platform. While one man remained at the wheel, another guarded the platform, while the others got the safe. Smashing a heavy iron chain used to fasten the safe to the platform, the gangsters got out to the car and sped off, still unaware of the small sum it contained. As the car disappeared in the direction of Philadelphia, a passer-by obtained the license number, and a check-up revealed, police said, that the plates had been stolen from Erwin J. Creed of Bala-Cynwyd.

Grapple For Body

Philadelphia, July 31—Harbor police were grappling in the Schuylkill River below the Walnut street bridge, today, for the body of a woman, believed to have been beaten and hurled to her death from the span by two men.

The search was based on information furnished by George C. Becker, a businessman of Ventnor, N. J., who said he was driving over the bridge when a woman was dragged from a parked automobile and hurled over the rail. Becker reported the men raced to the car, after hurling the woman into the river, before he could get the license number, a large dark sedan.

It is possible, although unlikely, detectives believe, that Becker, in the darkness, mistook a large bundle which the men wanted to dispose of by hurling it into the river, for the form of a woman.

Whether murder had been committed will not be known definitely, police said, until the body has been recovered from the river.

WOODROW FREED OF ALL BLAME IN DEATH OF McKENNA

Coroner's Jury Finds That Accident at Eddington
Was Unavoidable

WAS AT DARK SPOT

Car Struck Victim a Glancing
Blow and Not Head-On

John S. Woodrow, Eddington, was exonerated of all blame in the death of John McKenna, Eddington, by a coroner's jury at the Municipal Building here yesterday afternoon. Woodrow had been held under bail to await the jury's action following the death of McKenna when he was struck at Street Road and Bristol Pike by a car operated by Woodrow, on June 28th.

The accident for which Woodrow had been held occurred when Woodrow, who is the manager of the Croydon Theatre, was returning from Philadelphia where he had delivered some films. A Croydon boy, Louis Beisel, Jr., Cedar avenue, was with Woodrow at the time of the accident. McKenna was taken to the Harriman Hospital by Woodrow where he was pronounced dead. McKenna made his residence at the St. Francis Industrial School in Eddington, where he was employed.

Patrolman S. J. Butcavage, South Langhorne, was the first to testify. He stated that McKenna was sober and that the car was in good condition. He also stated that the spot where the accident occurred was very dark, due to the background of houses on either side of the road at that spot.

Deputy Coroner of Bucks County, James P. Lawler, Bath street, testified that he was called to view the body and said that death was due to a skull fracture. Dr. Lawler also testified that an examination of the victim's clothing revealed a bottle of sweet oil, an eye-dropper, and a quantity of absorbent cotton. This, according to Dr. Lawler, indicated that McKenna might have been suffering from a defect in hearing.

Louis Beisel, Jr., the young man who was riding with Woodrow at the time, testified that the car was moving at 35 miles per hour when the accident occurred. He also said that the man was not seen until he was almost directly in the path of the car, and that Woodrow, by swinging the car to the left, struck the man a glancing blow instead of head-on.

Woodrow, the defendant, testified that his car had been inspected quite recently and that he was traveling at a speed of less than 35 miles per hour. He said that McKenna was dressed in dark clothing and that he first saw the man when his car was about 10 feet from him.

Bucks County Coroner Dr. H. Clayton Moyer, presided at the inquest, and was assisted by Dr. James P. Lawler, deputy coroner.

The jury which brought in the verdict of an unavoidable accident and exonerated Woodrow, consisted of: Evan B. Vandegriff, foreman; Michael C. McCole, William B. Moyer, Clarence G. Young, Edward S. Dougherty, and Frank Loderbough.

FEWER CRIMINALS ESCAPE

The automobile has given the modern criminal an advantage over society his predecessors did not enjoy. Even with burglar alarms and improved police protection the motor handit can surprise his victim and be miles away from the scene of his crime before the alarm is given.

Organized crime has had the advantage, even over motorized police departments, but that "edge" is disappearing as society improves its defenses. Great gains have not been made in preventing robberies or in capturing criminals in action, but it is becoming increasingly difficult for the guilty to escape the consequences of their crimes.

A national rogues' gallery, developed by the bureau of investigation of the department of justice at Washington with the cooperation of hundreds of police departments, is aiding in the apprehension of 230 fugitives from justice a month. And by arrangements with more than a score of countries its work has become international in scope.

Establishment of this central clearing house for information on criminals and its surprising success demonstrate what the police can accomplish in their war on crime when they put their heads together and give as much serious thought to the prevention of crime as organized crime gives to the perpetration of crime. Every weapon and device the handit and burglar use is available to the forces of law and order on even a larger scale, so the fault must have been society's in not availing itself of them.

SARTORIALLY SPEAKING

People are naturally interested in what their relatives are doing, so the people of the United States are wondering how their English cousins are weathering the heat wave. The answer is, "Poorly, old chap."

The mercury has been running up into the eighties more or less habitually on King George's tight little island this summer, and when the thermometer passes the 80 mark in England it is deucedly hot, don't cha know. It's the humidity, not the heat, as it were.

This summer with its abnormally hot weather may break down the British morale as to formal attire regardless of the temperature. When the Englishman goes to town he must wear a long black coat and silk topper no matter what the season. Out at his country place he may don a sports coat of heavy tweed or homespun, but such concessions to comfort are verboten in town.

Give the American man credit for breaking down this one silly custom. He has repealed the law of custom which made it criminal to be comfortable when Old Sol beams his beamyest. Tropical attire and sartorial practices have been introduced to the largest American cities and the most dignified surroundings.

fulfilled the duties of its stewardship. On this one issue, that it has not conducted the affairs of government efficiently and economically, it should be condemned and rejected by the people.

This endless succession of interferences and experiments was inaugurated under the deceptive slogan of a New Deal. This policy of government by guess, officially explained by President Roosevelt as founded on a philosophy of try-anything-once, was initiated under the title of economic planning. No one of its proponents has been able to define the New Deal or to explain what it is aimed at or where it is going. No one of them has been able to make clear what the economic plan is.

It began with a proposal for a belt of trees in a territory that nature had decided should not have trees. It is ending with the use of public funds to conduct classes in tap-dancing. No one can explain the New Deal or economic planning, but every one knows what came from it. The major measures were the NRA, the AAA, the PWA, the CWA, the WPA and devaluation of the dollar. Such measures are not new.

They were old in history before America was discovered. They failed in Babylon and Rome and England centuries ago. Not one of these New Deal measures is mentioned in the 1936 platform of the Democratic Party. There is no reference to the fate of these strange experiments. There is no reference in all that platform to the New Deal or to economic planning. But, in this omission, they are entirely consistent. There was no mention of them in the 1932 platform either. They are a strange interlude between the solemn promises of the 1932 platform and the vague generalizations of the 1936 platform.

It is constantly asserted that the Republican Party has always stood for a strong Federal Government. The assertion is correct. It still stands for a vigorous Federal authority. But it advocates this authority within the limits set by the Constitution. It has always exercised that authority by legislations constitutionally passed and constitutionally executed. It always will. It has always exerted that authority without passing the boundaries of States' rights and local self-government.

The Republican Party recognizes that changing social and economic conditions call for increased Federal activities. But it always insists that such new activities shall be legalized by proper Constitutional amendment. It always will. It approves the horse-and-buggy method of changing the Constitution, and it disapproves a philosophy that laughs at the horse-and-buggy method and wants to use only the buggy whip. It condemns the abuse of Federal power to invade local rights. It does not believe in putting a New Jersey pants-presser in jail for charging less than the amount dictated by a board in Washington. It disapproves a Government of men instead of a Government of law. It prefers a Government guided by Constitutions to a Government guided only by caprice.

The Republican Platform of 1936 lays down in simple language the program of Federal regulation and legislation to which it commits itself on many issues. Where the specific program is not definitely outlined, the details will be presented in the coming campaign. On certain matters Governor Landon made the issues clear in his telegram to the Cleveland Convention. In his acceptance speech one week ago he presented specific policies in reference to other important issues. Whatever concrete measures the Republican Party has in mind will be presented to the voters before election, not after. And whatever measures the Republican Administration may urge upon Congress, not one will flout the Constitution of the United States. Not one will violate the obligation of contracts. Not one will break a promise.

I have already said that this is no ordinary campaign. On the mere issue of efficiency in Administration, the present Government stands convicted of failure. But there is a larger issue, an issue that goes to the heart of American life. It is the issue of the kind of economic system the American people will live by. For more than three years the economic life of the country has been at the mercy of a crew of amateur experimenters, harking at the vitals of American industry, agriculture, commerce and finance. Driven by a fantastic impulse to shape our economic structure to their fantastic designs, they have usurped the powers of Congress, insulted the authority of the courts, invaded the powers of the States, and undermined the institutions of local self-government.

As one experiment after another has ended in ignominious failure or repudiation by the courts, new experiments have been attempted, from laws to put producers of potatoes in jail to proposals to cut Florida in two. Driven to desperation by failure, the present Administration undertook to gamble with destiny plotted on blue prints in a Washington office. When they have a date with destiny they want to know what the lady looks like. They want to have a word to say about it.

The issue before the country is the preservation of free enterprise. On this issue the Republican Party appeals to the whole people. It appeals to the millions of sincere Democrats who have been outraged by the appearance of un-American practices in the garb of ancient Democratic principles. It appeals to the millions of thrifty and hard-working people whose patiently accumulated savings in life insurance and savings accounts are jeopardized by the reckless spending of the present Administration. It appeals to the millions of business men who have for years faced the adversities of depression and are now facing the regimenter and the tax-gatherer. It appeals to the real forgotten men and women of the Nation, the millions of workers in agriculture and personal service and small enterprise who have been ignored in all the pretense of social legislation of the New Deal. It appeals to the women of America, who have borne the hardest blows of depression and unemployment and now face the problems of household management under a rising cost of living in an economy of scarcity.

The Republican Party does not promise to solve all these problems that you face. It has no patent nostrums to cure every economic ill. There is no royal road to the solution of all our economic problems. But the Republican Party does make certain promises. It does promise a fair and honest Government. It does promise that this Government will be as economical and efficient as it can be made.

It does promise to make every effort to install sensible and practical measures to help in the solution of the problems of trade and industry and agriculture, the problems of poverty and insecurity. Above all, it promises you that in its efforts to aid in these problems it will not prevent you from trying to work out your individual and personal problems for yourselves, with your own ambitions, your own enterprise, and your own energies.

Through the two thousand years of Christian civilization the price of progress has been sacrifice. Three hundred years ago our forefathers could have purchased safety, but at the price of liberty. They could have remained safe in England and left the New World to be conquered by others. The men who signed the Declaration of Independence could have lived safely as colonists in the British Empire, but not as free men. Seventy years ago our fathers could have avoided Civil War, the price of a disrupted union. They all preferred sacrifice to safety. Again we reach a point where the blades along the trail run out. Two ways lie ahead. One lies along the apparently easy valleys of a regimented society, maintained by a paternalistic Government which falsely promises to provide its subjects with a security that men were wont to purchase in the past by their own efforts. The other lies along the rugged heights of self-support, self-government and self-respect.

Which will we choose? We know the path our fathers chose. More often than not the right way of life is not the easy way. Because we have always taken the self-reliant way, the self-respecting way, American character has emerged as our greatest national asset. Take from us every vestige of three hundred years of progress, leave only the raw materials that God placed here, give us the American character, and we would swiftly reconstruct here a civilization as great as that we have today. America is too young, too vigorous, to be deceived by false promises of an easy way.

And so I preach to you the doctrine, not of the soft and spineless kept citizen of a regimented state, but of the self-respecting and self-reliant men who made America. Which way shall we go? The answer is in your hands. I know what it will be. Next November you will choose the American way.

PURNELL AND DAVIS LISTED ON FIGHT CARD

Two local colored boys will be on the St. Ann's boxing show to be presented in its arena, Wood and Franklin streets, Monday night. The ebony-skinned warriors who will fight under the colors of the St. Ann's organization are Sylvester Purnell and Harry Davis.

Purnell has had two fights for the St. Ann's Club. He gave Walter Padlo, the A. A. U. champion, a tough tussle but lost and two shows ago he came back strong to beat James Brown, East Side. Under the direction of Sammy Moffo, trainer of the St. Ann's mittmen, Purnell has changed his style of fighting and is looking forward to a victory over his foe who will be Henry Robbins, Arena.

Harry Davis is gaining quite a reputation among the amateur ranks. Davis' style of fighting has most of the Philadelphia boys bewildered. He is rated among the leading fighters in the amateur circles in the vicinity of 170 pounds and several managers claim that with several more bouts under his belt he would be able to give Izzy Richter, the Penn State star, a good fight.

Davis will meet Milton Hines, Arena, in Monday night's show and is anxious to topple the Arena gladiator. Both of these boys are in fine shape and a fast bout is assured the fans.

Matchmaker Patsy Moffo is now working on a bout for Tally Sclarra. Sclarra fought Karl Schmead in the Mayfair bouts and lost a close decision. Tally was floored in the first session but came back strong to fight the Nativty fighter toe to toe for the remainder of the fight. Moffo is also trying to line up a bout with two heavyweights participating.

Charles Alta, finance manager, reports that the reserve seats demand is beyond expectations and a large crowd is anticipated.

JEFFERSON A. C. WINS OVER THIRD WARD, 5-3

The Jefferson A. C. snapped out of its doldrums last night long enough to batter itself to a 5-3 triumph over the Third Ward A. C. on Leedom's field. The tilt was a hurlers' battle between Reds McCurry and Karl Leinheiser.

McCurry gave up three hits to the batters, while young Leinheiser permitted five. McCurry whiffed eight, five coming in the last two frames. Leinheiser struck out four. The Third Ward twice had a bad start, being picked for a quintet of markers in the first. In this inning, the Mules made all their hits, being blanked without a run or hit the remainder of the contest.

The games scheduled for tonight in the Bristol Twilight League have been called off.

MINSTER BLANKS "HIBS," BREAKS WINNING STREAK

The 20-game winning streak of the Hibernians was broken to pieces last night on Landreth's field as Harry Minster, diminutive right-hand hurler of the Odd Fellows, blanked them with a single hit in a seven-inning fracas. Despite the defeat, the Hibs maintained their edge on first-place of the second-half race.

Roy Devlin was the batter who found Minster for the only bingle against him. With two gone in the second, the Oddies' moundman could not locate the plate for McGinley, and passed him. Devlin then singled solidly to left. Ten Hibernians fell down on strikes at the hooks of Minster. He walked two and another batter reached base on an error.

The Hibernian pitcher, Devlin, was entirely too wild. It was his failure to find the platter in the first that helped the Radcliffe street team to four runs in the first as the first batter walked, another was hit, and the third was also given a pass. Three singles followed.

A pass started the Oddies to a two-run spurge in the fourth, while a hit batsman rounded the sacks in the sixth.

Minster, Benny Praul and Freddie Hibbs led the winners' attack with two hits each.

Tough Competition for U. S. Olympians

America is considered to have its greatest athletes entered in track and field events at the Berlin Olympics, but they face most menacing aggregation of foreign stars ever assembled. In the 110-meter high hurdles, E. O. Finlay (left), Britisher, has done 0:14:3, only one-tenth of a second behind the listed world record. Particularly disturbing to U. S. contenders is the fine form displayed by Luigi Becalli (right) of Italy, victor in the 1,500-meter run in 1932, and K. Oshima (inset), Japanese hop-step and jump star, who has done 51 feet 10 1/2" this year.

NEWS SNAPSHOTS ON ATHLETES IN OLYMPICS

Warn U. S. Crew

BERLIN, July 31.—(INS)—Veterans of European boat races and sports writers shake their heads at the suggestion that the Americans firmly believe in a victory in the eight-oared crew races at the Olympic games.

European experts hold that the Washington University rowers must perform the prescribed 2000 meters in about 9 to 10 seconds less than they do just now before they can dream of victory over the best European crews, notably Hungary's eight which recently rowed 2,000 meters in 6 minutes, 9.2 seconds.

Hungary Hopeful

Olympic track and high jump prospects for Hungary are looking up.

The Hungarian hope, Nicholas Szabo, traveled over the cinder path here in a try-out over the 1,500 meter course in 3 minutes 59.6 seconds. He hopes to improve on his time and has his eye on the Olympic track crown. He is in his late twenties—a tall, sturdy lad with blond hair.

Bars Remain Open

In order not to interfere with merrymaking, curfew hours for all kinds of bars and restaurants were lifted for the Olympic months of July and August by Count Helldorf, police president of Berlin. Normally Berlin restaurants have to close at 3 a. m.
